Investment Objective and Investment Policy

The investment objective of the fund is to generate value from a worldwide, diversified portfolio of equity.

The investment strategy is based on a value-style fundamental review of company performance. Risk diversification and liquidity are always fully considered.

Characteristics

The fund is suitable for long-term oriented investors, who prefer to invest in a globally diversified equity portfolio and would like to delegate the tactical asset allocation to the fund manager.

Investment Manager's Comment

The markets experienced a strong rebound and the Nasdaq index reached new highs in September. The AI investment boom shows no signs of weakening, even though the operators of AI models and data centers are burning through tens of billions in cash and have little prospect of profits. The fund primarily invests in supposed AI losers, for example, in the software sector. This sector suffered during the rebound in the reporting month. However, the fundamentals of our companies continue to develop very positively; only the market narrative is negative. With the German company Nemetschek, we acquired the leading provider of software for architects and construction management, which continues to grow at a double-digit rate. With McKesson, we reacquired one of the leading US pharmaceutical logistics companies, which impresses with strong free cash flows and substantial share buybacks. We sold Sika and BB Seguridade because both stocks were trading close to their fair value and have therefore become relatively less attractive.
